Personal Privacy and Data Protection Policy

Due to the new EU GDPR requirements we have published this document to explain our company policy regarding data protection.

We currently and will continue to reject any data set we receive that contain any personally identifiable information. Any data inadvertently sent to us with such information will be destroyed.

We will continue to reject any market research data or information that we have reason to believe has been collected without consent or by any illegal means.

We currently and will continue to share any market research data either in raw form or aggregated, with any third party without written consent from the first party.

Our GDPR Officer is Hazel Veck and our ICO contact continues to be Gregory Knowles.

We reserve the right to update this statement at any time.
